LONG BIO

Patricia Bellamy-Mathis, MSW is the owner of Aspenne's Library, LLC a book publishing agency with a mission of curating children's books and literature that highlights, promotes & provides positive Black and brown stories. She is a mother, wife, author, educator and social worker who is an advocate for early literacy as she was inspired to write while taking the #1000booksbeforekindergarten challenge with her oldest daughter, Aspenne.

Patricia's first book, "Down South for the Summer" tells her own family story, but also the quintessential experience of a Black family from the Northeast traveling by car to spend a 1990s summer with their grandparents in the South. Patricia's second book, "Aspenne Colors the Neighborhood" shares the experience she shares with her daughters and husband, incorporating learning and exercise while making fun memories. She hopes that with these stories, others will be able to relate and appreciate their own valued family experiences.

Patricia has a B.S. in Business Administration and a Masters of Social Work, both from the University of Connecticut. In her full time position, as a Director with UConn Husky Nutrition & Sport, Patricia collaborates to provide literature and develop curriculum that is both representative of and relevant to the Black and brown students she serves in Hartford and the greater Connecticut community. Patricia was born and raised in New Haven, CT works in Hartford, CT and currently resides with her family in New Britain, CT.
